

Press Release

The Tunisian Forex Club would like to point out that what was projected during its congress held on November 7th, 2019 is a simple theoretical demonstration of a digital currency developed by a Tunisian fintech labelled Start-up Act. Therefore, what has been reported by some press regarding the issuance by the Central Bank of Tunisia of a digital currency at this congress is unfounded.

On the occasion of the congress held by the Tunisian Forex Club, there was indeed a debate on the new international developments related to the issuance of a digital currency by central banks. The congress was also marked by the participation of an IMF expert, specialized in the digital field, who developed his point of view on the management of the risks associated with the issuance of this type of currencies.

Béchir Trabelsi,
President of the Forex Club de Tunisie

